Do you work in the wild?

Sentinel Outdoor Institute will be offering a 3 day Wilderness First Aid training course. This course is commonly taught around the world as an intro to wilderness medicine. It will be taught by a team of Kenyan, Tanzanian and American outdoor professionals and veteran instructors.

The WFA is designed to offer an overview of wilderness medicine and extended guidance in technique development.

It is ideal for camp staff, drivers and assistant guides. Course participants should be proficient in English. Approximately 60% of the course is classroom lecture and 40% practical scenarios.

KEY COURSE COMPONENTS:

- Scene assessment
- Patient assessment
- Identifying life threatening injuries
- Caring for injuries and illnesses including
 - stopping bleeding
 - cleaning and caring for wounds
 - managing and splinting fractured bones & joints
 - snake bites

- Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR)
- Safely moving patients

ADDITIONAL COMPONENTS (to Basic First Aid course):

- Injury and illness prevention
- Long-term injury and illness management
- Improvised litter construction
- Environmental emergencies

Students successfully passing the course will receive internationally recognised WFA and CPR certifications from SOI.
