Do you spend time in the outdoors or work with those who do?

African Environments is proud to host the Sentinel Outdoor Institute, who will be offering a 1/2 day Leave No Trace course. It will be led by Shikuku Ooko, Leave No Trace Master and Veteran Guide, with Alphonse Mallya, Conservation Coordinator for TNC Africa.

This course is founded on the skills and ethics of Leave No Trace, and developed with The Nature Conservancy so students receive lessons on local conservation challenges and how they can help. LNT is designed for all users of the outdoors, including guides, drivers, support crews, educators, students, and recreationalists. Approximately 50% of the course is classroom lecture and 50% discussions and activities.

KEY COURSE COMPONENTS:

- Plan Ahead and Prepare
- Travel and Camp on Durable Surfaces
- Dispose of Waste Properly
- Leave What You Find
- Minimize Use and Impact of Fires
- Respect Wildlife and Farm Animals
- Practice Responsible Ecotourism
- Landscape challenges in Northern Tanzania
 - development
 - protected areas
 - wildlife corridors
 - invasive species
- Responsibility as users of the landscape
- Sharing message with others

Students successfully passing the course will receive an internationally recognised certificate from LNT.
